International College Counselors’ Barry Liebowitz Helps College-Bound Students Make Smart Choices

BARRY LIEBOWITZ HELPS STUDENTS AND families get an early start on their college planning so they can make smart choices throughout high school. “I enjoy providing personalized, one-on-one consulting time focused on the student’s individual goals,” says Liebowitz, Partner at International College Counselors. “We help students and families with all aspects of the college admissions process including school selection, essay review and interview preparation, as well as scholarship and financial aid identification. Most importantly, we take the stress away from the student and parent.”

Liebowitz emphasizes the importance of starting college planning in 9th grade, rather than waiting until the junior year. “Starting early lets you plan the right high school curriculum, extracurricular activities and allows you to make good use of your summers. For instance, if your goal is to become editor of the school paper as a senior, you have to get involved in writing and editing as a freshman or sophomore.”

International College Counselors—the Official College Advisor of Donna Klein Jewish Academy in Boca Raton—receives high marks from families, schools and educators for meeting the needs of college-bound students. With offices throughout South Florida, as well as in New York and South America, the firm’s eight full-time college counselors work with students from more than 10 states and 15 countries.

“I enjoy working with students of all backgrounds, including Ivy League-bound students, student athletes, fine art majors, international students, students with special needs and students who are the first in their family to attend college,” says Liebowitz, who has personally visited more than 150 colleges and universities. As a former high school and college student athlete who played baseball and basketball, he says, “I believe there’s a college for everyone, and our one-on-one approach gives us the insight needed to find the best possible schools for our students and families.”

International College Counselors is located at 1200 N. Federal Highway, Suite 200, Boca Raton.
